

Our Mission

In2Hyperion is a consortium of experts in a field often referred to as Business Intelligence, Enterprise Performance Management, and a host of other fancy acronyms. The focus of this effort will be around the Oracle Hyperion suite of products, but won't be limited to them.

This space has been developed to help inspire people to search and implement better ways of doing the same old thing. Whether it be using a more appropriate software solution, or using your existing assets in a more efficient and effective way, we believe there is a lot that can be done to overcome our current challenges. We intend to grow this website to create a rich resource that those inside and outside of this industry can tap in to and become more effective. Inspire us by posting comments and sharing your experiences so we can grow as a team, and help more and more of our friends in the BI spectrum.