

Free Slide on The Benefits of PBCS

I have been using PBCS for over a year now. As much as it surprises me, I am a fan. From my experience, I have seen good performance, above average stability, above average accessibility, and I enjoy the cutting edge functionality that is lacking with on-premise implementations. I created some info-graphics for presentations and thought I would share with the community. As always, if you would like to contract me for design work, I am always excited to take on interesting and challenging work. If you would like to donate, click the link to the right.
